A scatter plot within a dashed square frame. The plot contains 100 data points, each represented by a small circle with the number '1' inside. The points are arranged in a triangular pattern, with the base of the triangle along the left edge of the frame and the apex pointing towards the top center. The points are more densely packed in the center of the triangle and become sparser towards the edges. The overall shape is roughly triangular, occupying about the left two-thirds of the square frame.
